Magner Sanborn,

I am currently seeking a position for a graphic design internship in the summer. I became aware of this internship position at Magner Sanborn I when looking at my favorite graphic design and advertisement firms/businesses in Spokane. Right now I am in the works of completing my Bachelors of Fine Arts in Visual Communication and Design (VCD) at Eastern Washington University. So far in my VCD courses I have excelled, gathering a great understanding of design principles, design programs (like Photoshop, Illustrator, and InDesign) and Design languages (html and CSS). I have one more year in my VCD major where I will be focusing on the BFA project which is a large project that I will work on the entire school year, with a final showing in the spring . This program has well equipped me, giving me the requirements needed for being a graphic design internship at Magner Sanborn.

Your company is looking for a intern who can efficiently coordinate, research, and implement for a variety of projects for your clients. As a Visual Communication and Design major, I have become very proficient with all the Adobe Suit programs and have become very confident with the drafting (drawing) processes including generating ideas fast on paper. I was a division one volleyball player here at EWU, this has given me the ability to work well with other. Being a student athlete has also allowed me to learn how to manage my time well and met deadlines, while still giving myself the time needed to be very detailed oriented.

With my experience and skills, along with my passion to make useful, creative, and powerful design I believe I am great candidate for this graphic design internship position. I want to bring my experience and passion to Magner Sanborn to help develop compelling marketing and advertising pieces.

Thanks you for taking the time to read my cover letter and resume, as well as your consideration of my application. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions or would like to schedule an interview.

Sincerely,
Celeste Crosby
